

The Sam-O-Set Opens July 1st

Rockland Breakwater.—The Sam-O-Set, one of the most famous resorts on the coast of Maine, will open for its 42d season Thursday, July 1. This hotel has long been noted for its superb location, its charm and hospitality and its fine cuisine. Three years ago Adriel U. Bird, president of La Touraine Coffee Company, and William A. Doe, president of Bolton Smart Company, both of Boston, bought the Sam-O-Set from the Maine Central Railroad and have continued the same policies which have made it so delightful a resort. This season it will be operated by Robert J. Nutt, who has long been associated with The Sam-O-Set and The Breakers.

This resort is particularly fortunate as it is accessible by rail, and upon arrival the guest will find a great variety of activities right at hand and the management takes great pleasure in providing many forms of entertainment.

The hotel is situated on a large peninsula and the hotel grounds comprise more than 400 acres. It commands a fine view of the island-studded Penobscot Bay and to the west the Camden Hills make a picturesque background. Here you will find a vacation adapted to all members of the family where one's day can be very active or one may enjoy complete seclusion and rest.

Golf takes precedence over all other sports. This year finds the course in particularly good condition. The first tee and the ninth green are at the door. The course skirts the shore and then turns inland through the pines. Louis Forte will again be the professional in charge. Weekly tournaments add interest and the Saturday afternoon putting tournament is always popular.

While it is possible to swim in Penobscot Bay the water is apt to be chillier than most people enjoy so a large outdoor pool was constructed a few years ago. This is filled with salt water and the temperature of the water regulated to insure an enjoyable swim. A large platform has been erected at the far end of the pool and comfortable chairs, tables and gaily colored parasols present an inviting atmosphere for sun worshippers and swimmers. From here or from the west veranda one has a fine view of the tennis for beside the pool are two clay courts where one can usually find a game in progress.

Rand Smith, with his orchestra, is returning for another season and a hearty welcome will await him. Mr. Smith's beautiful voice greatly added to the enjoyment of the guests last Summer. This Winter Mr. Smith gave a recital at Town Hall in New York and his singing received the acclaim of the critics. He has appeared with leading orchestras and on the radio.

In addition to the featured Sunday evening concert there will be daily concerts and music for dancing each evening at the cocktail hour and for the mid-week and Saturday dances. It is planned to have dancing nightly in the Marine Cocktail Lounge, also.

Other facilities available include badminton, croquet, ping pong, backgammon, Chinese checkers, and invariably there are bridge games in progress in the spacious lobbies or card rooms.

A gala program is being planned for the Fourth of July week-end. The first gold tournament of the season will be played on Friday and Saturday. A putting tournament will be held Saturday afternoon while the first dance of the season will be held that evening. There will be many small cocktail and dinner parties preceding the dance. An added feature this season will be the Gin Rummy tournaments, which will be held throughout the season. The first of these is scheduled for the holiday week-end.

The culmination of the week-end festivities will be a cocktail party given by William A. Doe and Robert J. Nutt for the guests and cottagers. Miss Pauline Ricker is again returning to direct the social activities. Each evening some special program is arranged, music, dancing, bridge, a picnic, gin rummy or backgammon tournaments, special

Honor Roll Board

Kiwanis Club Is Embarked
On Patriotic Project—
Mal Hallett Coming

A war honor roll board for Rockland, listing every man in the armed forces and his rank, kept up to date, is to be made a reality by the Kiwanis Club. This patriotic project has the full and enthusiastic support of the club which means the board itself will soon appear in a busy spot in the city.

The first effort of the club to raise part of the funds for the War Honor Roll Board takes place Thursday night when Mal Hallett and his nationally famous orchestra will appear at Community Building. Every penny of the net proceeds of this event will go toward the fund. It is the patriotic duty of those who wish to see proper recognition given Rockland veterans to get behind this affair. Tickets may be obtained from Kiwanians or at the desk at Hotel Rockland.

Saturday Last Day

For Enrollment In The Blue
Cross—Fill Out Your Application

Residents of this area are responding to the opportunity of joining the Blue Cross in a most enthusiastic manner. They realize the advantages of this group-budgeting method of defraying possible hospital expense. One family in five needs hospitalization each year, and Blue Cross offers a dignified way of providing the means.

As was previously announced in The Courier-Gazette applications when properly filled out—and accompanied by the initial premium payment—may be returned to Knox Hospital or to 15 Columbia street, Bangor.

Enrollment ends Saturday. That is the dead line. After that date no applications can be accepted for some time.

Walter P. Black, Blue Cross representative, who is conducting the enrollment can be reached at the Hospital during the remainder of the week.

An Advanced Degree

[EDITORIAL]

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire is interested in the conservation of Life Insurance. At the present time there is no general difficulty in keeping up Life Insurance. In fact the lapse ratio has reached an all time low. But the Senator would guard against future contingencies. Inflation is followed by deflation. Some 67 million people in this country have put their trust, under God, in Life Insurance. Their holdings exceed 130 billions of dollars. The economic stability, the social and individual security promoted by this vast estate are incomparable. Senator Bridges feels that this vital service should be fostered, instead of being taxed out of existence.

The essence of his bill is this: To permit deduction from gross taxable income of premiums paid on Life Insurance which was in force Dec. 8, 1941. It is really a protective measure for the hard pressed middle class, as it limits deductions to an amount which would not permit the rich to evade income taxes by this means. This seems to be a sound and conservative measure; for the fact is that the national welfare and the war effort are supported as fully by a Life Insurance premium dollar as by a tax dollar. If this bill becomes law, premiums paid on Life Insurance would be placed on a par with contributions to charity so far as tax exemptions are concerned. And why not?

No doubt Senators Wallace H. White, Ralph O. Brewster and Representative Margaret Chase Smith would welcome the reactions of our readers to this bill which in the House of Representatives was introduced by Congressman Angier L. Goodwin of Massachusetts.

We have never taken issue with Gov. Sewall on any of his announced policies. WE THINK Gov. Sewall but we are in full accord with Director Vose WAS WRONG of the O.P.A. who openly criticizes the Maine Executive, who had said, in effect, that the State Police were not to be used as "snoopers" on pleasure driving. Snoopers were never popular, as we all learned in the prohibition days, but neither are the violators of a rule tending to aid the war effort. Gov. Sewall's statement on Sunday was practically an invitation to unscrupulous motorists to use gas when and how they liked, although that was clearly not the intention of His Excellency. Director Vose well says "that if Gov. Sewall extended the support of the State Police to our enforcement campaign, plus his own endorsement of the pleasure driving ban, the few chiselers could be apprehended more quickly and effectively." And Director Vose added that the State O.P.A. will continue its enforcement "with or without the aid of the State."

The United States Supreme Court has a member who is eligible to retire, but he apparently doesn't feel that way about it. RETIRED? NOT SO YOU'D NOTICE IT We have reference to our Summer neighbor Chief Justice Stone, whose failure to look within ten years of his 70-year age, and whose brilliance of mind, and elasticity of spirits, are urging him to stick to the job, for which he is so abundantly fitted. He has not missed a day from court, because of illness, since 1937. This doesn't mean, however, that he is not counting the days to the time when he can don his sweater and old slouch hat, and bend a pair of oars in his favorite row-boat at Isle au Haut.

Does Gov. Thomas E. Dewey want to be the Republican candidate for the Presidency? Speaking in Columbus, Ohio, Sunday he would not elaborate on the statement he has so often made—that he has a big job to do in the Empire State, and that he will resist any attempt to place him at the head of the national ticket. And apparently he still feels the same way about it—which is rather discouraging to the growing number of Republicans who want to have him named. Meantime what's going to happen to Wendell Willkie whose bitter enemies do not want him nominated?

AND YOU CANNOT BLAME 'EM Rumors were rife at the week-end that Italian emissaries were in North Africa trying to run across somebody who was willing to talk peace. If we lived in Italy and had been forced into war against our wish—and were being subjected to such a terrific bombardment—we would not only want a return to peace, but would be the ones to bring up the subject.

The Courier-Gazette was the first newspaper in Maine to oppose having prisoners of war sent here as farm laborers, pointing out the dangers that might eventually result. With consequent gratification we note in yesterday's Washington's despatches the statement of the War Department that the war prisoners will probably not be assigned to Maine posts.

Hutchins conferred the degrees and delivered the Convocation address. Storer was one of 267 awarded the bachelor's degree. The Convocation was one of four in the University's academic year, and although the number of June graduates was 40 percent smaller than the corresponding number last year, the total for the four Convocations of the year showed a 5 percent increase, attributable to the early graduations of men entering the armed forces.

The Black Cat

(By The Roaring Reporter)

When Fred C. Green assumed the editorial management of the Watertown (Mass.) Sun he didn't assume the role of a cure-all, but when the distracted officials wanted to know how to keep pigeons away from the town hall he suggested the use of a stuffed owl which had worked so successfully in other cases that robins and other types of birds would turn somersaults when they saw their mortal enemy lying in wait for them.

Ingenious Fred Green, if your remedy is effective you have become the saviour of mankind. Please send me C.O.D. one dozen (12) stuffed owls to ornament the mansard roof of my residence, where a score of pigeons foregather after being fed by a neighbor. If, as I say, your remedy works, and your faith in deceased owls is justified, Gov. Saltonstall should bestow upon you some sort of Knighthood—say, for instance, High Priest of the Pigeon Panickers. Meantime, hoot, mon!

The buttercup has superseded the dandelion, and soon will come the golden rod, the golden glow—and the snow shovel.

Where is the tallest elm in Rockland? After you have all guessed I will give you a local tree surgeon's answer.

The season at Lakewood has opened and meals will be served at the Inn beginning next Tuesday. If, later, the gasoline situation permits the theatre will be reopened. Meantime residents of Knox County may cherish the memory of the trips they have made to that beautiful resort, and the joy which the legitimate drama has there given them.

During the fine Summer days, slipping by all too rapidly, one should prepare for Winter. Mrs. H. D. Crie writes from Criehaven that almost every family there has one or more pigs, some chickens and a garden, and that means a lot in these ir-rational days. Mrs. Crie also writes that she is the possessor of a dime dated 1814.

A Warren correspondent writes: I don't mean to be catty, but if our Governor (and he is my political man) and other State officials can go away on business and incidentally go on a fishing trip, and it is pronounced o. k., why can't ordinary people who have business in Rockland, incidentally attend the movies without being in danger of inspectors giving them a card. It doesn't take any more gas to go home at 11:30 p. m. than it does at 6:30 p. m. Most people in the country can't leave home until evening to do their weekly shopping, and a little pleasure makes a break in the steady grind of the farmer's life.

One year ago, Charles L. Veazie, Register of Probate, died at the age of 98 years.—Philip Crockett, a Stonington merchant, who formerly resided in Rockland, died at the age of 73 years.—Arthur L. Torrey, a former Rockland resident, died in Elgin, Ill., aged 81 years.—Other deaths: Camden, Maurice L. Kalloch, 61; Rockland, Mrs. James F. McIntosh 72; Warren, William O. Yates, 63; Elkins Park, Penn., Lawrence H. Dunn of Thomaston, 70.—Camden High School commencement exercises were held, with Charles E. Calderwood as valedictorian and Courtney Borden as salutatorian.

LIONS WELCOME NEW KING

Ed. Carver's Speech At Vinalhaven Made Hit
—Noyes Guest Speaker

Observing its annual installation of officers by holding a lobster supper and ladies night, the Vinalhaven Lions Club met in Odd Fellows Hall last Thursday evening, and sat down to a splendid meal of clams and lobsters, served in true Vinalhaven style by a committee of Rebekahs. During the meal door prizes were given to the ladies present, under the guiding hand of Past King Lion O. V. Drew, who, although he has been accused in the past of bestowing certain gifts and prizes where they would do the most harm, on this occasion proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that only Lady Luck was the real arbiter.

Prizes went to Mrs. Doris Arey, Mrs. Hilma Webster, Mrs. Frances Gilchrist, Miss Laura B. Sanborn and Mrs. Joseph Headley. Lion F. B. Sellers won a 52-piece set as a consolation prize. After some close harmony and long range a report on the District Convention recently held at Augusta was given by Lion O. V. Drew who had attended, accompanied by Secretary Chas. C. Webster. Past King Lion W. Sanborn installed the officers of the Club as follows: King Lion, Edward G. Carver, vice president, Andrew Gilchrist, secretary, Charles C. Webster, tail twister, Frank B. Sellers, directors, Clarence Bennett, Clyde Bickford, and Charles Boman. Lion O. V. Drew installed Past King Lion Sanborn as treasurer.

In making his report on the activities of the Club for the past year and his stewardship of the same, Lion Sanborn had the assistance of his sister, Miss Laura B. Sanborn, who in her usual calm and clear manner reviewed some of the high lights of the past year for Lionism in Vinalhaven, as it appeared to her from a study of the records. King Lion Ed brought down the house when in his speech of acceptance he said: "I suppose the time has arrived for me to express my pleasure in being elected President of the Lions Club. If I should say that I am pleased, I would be telling a lie, and I tell enough lies every day—in regard to ration stamps and have you got this or that—but I do feel honored to be chosen to act as President and will do my best to make good.

"Good work has been done the past year. We were very active in getting our new boat. Also, Orin Drew, as head of the Scrap Drive, did an extra good job, and he has deposited in the bank over $200 which will be given to the Red Cross (Continued on Page Five)

YOUR FAVORITE POEM
If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

LOYALTY
Call me not "friend," then willing, lend a ear
To him who sells my name with slanders words:
If thou art friend, then do thou never fear
With steadfast truth to guard me loyally
For loyalty is friendship's vital spark—
Her very heart. Thus, if thou traitor prove,
Thy friendship is like dust and in the dark.
Ere God's warm breath gave it a living soul.

Book Review (By K. S. F.)

"Green Wagons." Authors Oscar Seidlin and Santa Rypins. Publishers, Houghton and Mifflin Company, Boston.

It was in 1937 that the first publication of this book was accomplished, but this was in far off Switzerland, and it has taken all this time to get this delightful story into the hands of our children in this country, a secret I might tell you that every adult who reads the book will marvel at its charm and get the keen enjoyment that children will.

The story is about a theatrical troupe which arrives hungry and weary in the little town of Waidau, Switzerland, to find cold shoulders turned on them because a troupe of its class had left this town under suspicion of having stolen a Golden Apple, symbol of this village.

The townspeople decided to let no more traveling troupe play in their hamlet. The head of this band of "Green Wagons" was Tony Pedroni, and he protested against the unfairness, as no one had really proven that a troupe of players had stolen the Golden Apple, and when Tony was called a thief he went too far with his fistic protests and was clapped in jail.

"Cabbages and a King of American wealth," with high spirits of friendly children, especially the Mayor's son, Rix, make of this prize story a high example of beauty in the art of imagination. The author of this adorable tale is now in the World War, teaching the American boys to speak German enough to tell those Nazis when they are licked. A really delightful story. K. S. F.

THE CURFEW LAW

Now it's Old Town, busy with the curfew ordinance, and parents or guardians may be held responsible after three warnings, and they may be subject to pretty drastic fines, too, for these violations by their children. This law affects minors under 14 years of age who are out after the 9:30 p. m. ringing of the curfew bell, unaccompanied by parent or guardian. Excellent idea for every town or city to emulate.

Any excuse you can give for not upping your payroll savings will please Hitler, Hirohito and puppet Mussolini.

WORKING FOR VICTORY

North Haven is to hold memorial services at the Church Sunday morning at 11 a. m. for two young soldiers from that town who died in Japanese prison camps in the Philippines—Pvt. 1st class, Charles Baird, died June 11; and Pvt. 1st class, Hugh Parsons, who died June 16.

Protecting Eyes For Battle Action

Bull's eye! Goggles fitted with precision-ground lenses which reduce glare and absorb tiring invisible rays help this aerial machine gunner sight and blast Axis planes.

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass.—Efficient, well-protected eyesight is essential for waging mechanized warfare. That's why the Army and Navy, in a move to conserve eyes and sharpen them for battle action, inaugurated plans to equip our soldiers, sailors and fliers with eye-protective goggles.

As soon as these plans were voiced, the American Optical Company swung into action. In record time the concern helped design and put into production new types of war goggles fitted with special lenses.

One of the goggles, equipped with glare-reducing lenses that absorb invisible ultra-violet and infra-red rays, is used by the Navy for observation purposes and to spot planes, particularly dive bombers obscured by the sun's rays. Another type is fitted with special lenses which, in addition to blotting out reflected glare, can be rotated by hand to exclude as much light as desired.

For mechanized troops, goggles with plastic lenses have been designed, and these protect eyes against dust, wind, and glare. A sixth type for Army and Navy fliers has a precision-ground absorptive glass lenses which permit accurate flying, sighting, and bombing.

Ever-increasing quantities of these essential aids to military vision are being manufactured. Modern global warfare, such as we are now conducting, makes terrific demands on eyes; and these specialized goggles represent the solution to this visual problem.

This is a family war. Put your War Bonds buying through the payroll savings plan on a family plan, which means figure it out yourself.

YOUR FAMILY NEEDS USE 1/4 OF YOUR ENERGY FOODS! RED STAMPS FOR FATS!

Let this chart help you choose Rationed Fats and Shortenings!

Fats are the richest source of vital food energy. Foods prepared with fat are satisfying . . . they "stick to your ribs"! You need fats every day to keep meals hearty, good-tasting, varied! That's why Uncle Sam suggests you use 1/4 of your red stamps for fats!

The chart below will help you find which rationed fats to buy. It shows which ones can be used for the table . . . which ones for baking, frying, many other uses. Read it carefully and then decide which fats or shortenings will give you the most value for the points you spend!

	BUTTER	MARGARINE	VEGETABLE SHORTENING	LARD	COOKING OR SALAD OIL
KEEPING QUALITIES	Keep covered in refrigerator. Absorbs odors easily.	Keep covered in refrigerator.	Keeps fresh at room temperature. If packed in glass, keep in dark cupboard.	Keep covered in refrigerator.	Keeps longer in refrigerator. If oil solidifies, bring to room temperature before using.
TABLE USE	Preferred by most people.	When enriched with Vitamin A . . . good substitute for butter.	Can be used to extend butter for sandwich spread.	Not recommended.	Salad dressings may be used for sandwich spreads.
FOR FRYING	(pan-frying) . . . Do not overheat . . . scorches easily. (deep-frying) . . . Cannot be used.	(pan-frying) . . . Similar to butter. (deep-frying) . . . Cannot be used.	(pan-frying) . . . Excellent. (deep-frying) . . . Excellent . . . high smoking temperature — can be used over and over. Keeps fresh.	Can be used for both pan-frying and deep-frying, but may smoke at somewhat lower temperatures than vegetable shortenings.	Can be used for both pan-frying and deep-frying.
FOR CAKES AND COOKIES	Excellent. Gives a pleasant flavor.	Similar to butter but less expensive.	Excellent. Makes light, even-textured cakes. Good for cookies. Easy to use (pre-creamed).	Can be used—often combined with butter or margarine.	Not commonly used except in some cases where melted shortening is called for.
FOR PASTRY AND BISCUITS	Not commonly used.	Similar to butter.	Excellent. Makes short, flaky pie crust, tender biscuits. Easy to use.	Excellent. Gives short, flaky pie crust, tender biscuits.	Not commonly used.
OTHER USES	(salad dressings, sauces, gravies, etc.): Desirable for flavoring vegetables and delicate sauces. Expensive in points for these purposes now.	(salad dressings, sauces, gravies, etc.): Can usually be substituted for butter.	(salad dressings, sauces, gravies, etc.): Can be used wherever fat or shortening is called for. Bland; doesn't hide flavors of other ingredients.	(salad dressings, sauces, gravies, etc.): Distinctive lard flavor affects use. Mild lard can be used in most cases where fat or shortening is called for.	(salad dressings, sauces, gravies, etc.): Primary purpose — salad dressings. Can be used for some sauces. Gives gloss to vegetables.

For a Wartime Fourth of July

Red Cherry Roly Poly (WARTIME VERSION)

2 cups sifted enriched flour (more if desired)
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons Spry
1 1/2 cups fresh, frozen, or canned red pitted cherries, drained

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cut in Spry fine. Add milk, mixing to a soft dough. Roll dough into a rectangle about 1/4 inch thick. Cover dough to within 1/2 inch of edge with cherries, then roll like a jelly roll and seal edge. Cut into 1 1/2 inch squares and arrange about 1 inch apart, cut side down in Spry-coated oblong baking dish.

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt, and mix thoroughly with cherry juice and water. Boil 1 minute. Add almond extract and stir until blended. Pour over cherry rolls.

Bake in hot oven (425°F) 30 to 35 minutes, basting with juice after first 10 minutes of baking. Serve with cream. Serves 8.

Ration Tip for Wise Housewives Shop wisely—get the most for your pennies and your points. Save butter and margarine for table use only. Use all-purpose vegetable shortening for your baking and cooking. Make the most of its bland flavor . . . its 100% shortening value.

Vinalhaven Lions

Cross, when they have use for it here in Vinalhaven for some medical service. Orin is a great scrapper and every chance he has he gives me a dig, even goes too far sometimes and puts articles in the paper about me. Did you see the slander he had printed? I was much disturbed, but when the letters began to arrive I felt better. You ought to see the pile of replies I received from that "ad." Little he thought I would receive a benefit from his mocking.

"I have a way of creating goodwill at the store. One way is to give away safety razor blades. One day a person came in the store. I saw it was one of my friends, with quite a growth of whiskers. I at once gave him a package of razor blades. He said, 'What are they for?' I told him to call on Joe Kittredge and he would give directions for use. His whiskers reminded me of a baseball game, nine on a side, and three out, all out.

"His daily job is standing at a window delivering mail, and I advise he place a substitute at the window—some good-looking person. Also that the frame around the window be gold-bronze. The Lions see that this is done, and thus make a real picture!"

"While treasurer I thought it would be a good plan to rewrite and itemize the entire treasurer's account for the six years, showing ways of earning money, also how it was given away as good deeds. I did this, taking about two days' labor. It was read at the Lions' meeting and vote was taken to have it printed in The Courier-Gazette. It so happened many mistakes were made in printing, which made me a defaulter. At the next Lions' meeting I was presented with a past treasurer's pin, which was a polite way of saying 'resign'—but I did not take the hint and held on till the end.

"I had an experience in buying a pair of overalls. When I put them on, I found that two buttons were missing. I called Lion Leo's attention to the fact, and wanted him to send away and get two buttons. He said as they were made of metal I would have to get priority from the Government, but I ought to be patriotic enough to go without buttons. Now I have to wear the overalls with only two, instead of four buttons. Kind of tough for us men! It looks like an open season for flies.

Lion Drew, valiantly struggling to hold back a desire to crown Lion Ed with a soda pop bottle, instead gallantly crowned him with a real 100 percent pure paper crown and proclaimed him "King Lion Edward The First." He was afterward greeted by his loyal subjects with a big sneeze, and a hoarse, (no, not horse) laugh.

After some semblance of composure had been restored, King Lion Ed introduced as speaker of the evening a former Vinalhaven boy who has made good in advertising business, Fred C. Noyes, of Rumford, R. I. Mr. Noyes who has been returning to his island home every Summer for the past 25 years said he had not spoken in public in Vinalhaven since the year 1913 when he delivered an oration on "The League of Nations" as his part in the Commencement exercises of the Vinalhaven High School, and he thought that if his subject had no better fate in store than that which befell the League of Nations it would be another 25 years before he would get another chance to speak in Vinalhaven. But Mr. Noyes need have no fear on that score for once he got warmed up to his subject, which was "Modern Advertising" and something that very few people in his audience knew anything at all about, he held his listeners with a very fascinating story of how an advertising agency puts on an advertising campaign, from the moment of its inception to the moment of its triumph. Mr. Noyes may rest assured that it will not be another 25 years before he addresses another Vinalhaven audience.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Headley, Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Drew, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. C. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Libby, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arey, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gilchrist, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Sellers, Outgoing King Lion L. W. Sanborn and Miss Laura B. Sanborn, Incoming King Lion E. G. Carver and Mrs. Minnie Smith, Mr. Albert E. Carver and Miss Ruth Carver, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mont Arey, Walter Pendleton, Miss Fay Courn, Fred C. Noyes and Mrs. Mary Noyes.

King Lion Ed has the best wishes of every member for a happy and prosperous new year of Lions service.

Points On Point Rationing

CHERRY desserts fit smoothly into summer menus.

However, where one uses the raw product, there is the difficulty of pitting, which requires more time than the average housekeeper has to devote to such a job. On the other hand, one can of pitted red sour cherries can be stretched into services for ten people or more by use of a cleverly worked out recipe.

From the kitchen of the American Can Company comes the following recipe, which is recommended by Miss Isabel Young, director of the company's home economics division, as one that will please the whole family.

Cherry Layer Bars
 1/2 cup Shortening
 1/2 cup Sugar
 1/2 cup Flour
 1/2 cup Soda
 1/2 cup Cherry Filling
 Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; add oatmeal and sifted dry ingredients. Mix until crumbly. Press 1/2 the mixture in a wax paper-lined 8 x 8 pan. Spread with cherry filling. Add remaining oatmeal mixture and pat smooth. Bake in a moderate oven at 350° F. for 30 minutes. Cut in squares while warm. Makes about 20 squares.

Cherry Filling
 1/2 No. 2 can Pitted Red Sour Cherries
 1 1/2 tablespoons Pitted Red Flour
 1/3 cup Sugar
 Drain cherries; measure 1/2 cup juice. Make a smooth paste of flour and 1/4 cup cherry juice. Add to remaining cherry juice; mix well and heat. Chop cherries; add to juice. Add sugar and cook until thick, about the consistency of jam, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and cool.

CAKE WITHOUT BUTTER

Simple and easy to prepare — high in nutritious food values

With new wartime food shortages popping up almost every day, it's often a challenge to a woman's ingenuity to keep up the family morale with a delicious, appetizing cake now and then. If it's the butter shortage that is puzzling you, here's a new cake recipe that calls for none at all. Delicious, too, with a good combination of food values. Your Mixmaster can give it a velvet-smooth consistency without the usual arm-work, or it can be made by hand if you haven't one.

INGREDIENTS: 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 6 egg whites, 1 1/4 cups sugar, 6 egg yolks, 1/2 cup orange juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind.

METHOD: Sift together, three times, flour and baking powder. Add salt to egg whites, beat at No. 8 speed until stiff enough to stand in points. Beat in 1/2 cup of the sugar gradually, continuing to

Pinch-hitting for Uncle Sam

HE signs his mail John Jones, or Sam Smith, but as Chairman of a War Price and Rationing Board he is pinch-hitting for Uncle Sam.

For his neighbors he is making good America's promise of a fair share of food and fuel and the other rationed necessities for everyone. He is protecting them against the chiseler, the hoarder, the black market saboteur.

It isn't always a pleasant job. Making hundreds of decisions every week—difficult decisions, too—doesn't leave a man any younger. More than once he has turned down an old friend's application for an extra mileage ration. His own car has only an "A" sticker.

Last week he took his wife to a movie for the first time in months. A tired look around his eyes hints at many an after-hours session at the board. But he's proud he's doing his part—and more.

John Jones isn't paid for pinch-hitting for Uncle Sam. He volunteered for the job. He thought he owed it to that khaki-clad son of his—and to people in his community like you.

Your local War Price and Rationing Board is made up of men and women like John Jones. They are working hard—without pay—to see that you get your fair share. Give them your fullest cooperation.

J. LESTER SHERMAN

Services for John Lester Sherman, 65, retired plumbing and heating business operator, who died at his home, 87 Beech street, Friday, were held at the late residence Sunday afternoon, Rev. John Smith Lowe, D. D., officiating.

Mr. Sherman was a lifelong resident of Rockland, son of Cyrus and Flora Mears Sherman. Early in life he entered the employ of Arthur Shea, plumber, and conducted the business following Mr. Shea's death. He was a member of the Church of Immanuel, Universalist; the Rockland Rotary Club; Knox Lodge, I.O.O.F., and Aurora Lodge, F.A.M. He is survived by his wife, Mabel Frances Wyllie (Shea), and a half-sister, Mrs. Ella Rokes of Rockland. Bearers were: Harold E. Jackson, Walter H. Spear, Walter C. Ladd and Harold P. Blodgett. Interment was in Achorn cemetery.

WILLIAM E. PEASE (A Tribute)

"Billy Pease is dead!" That was the sorrowful news that spread rapidly throughout this village on a recent Sunday when it became known that Billy Pease had been found dead in his boat, the result, undoubtedly, of a heart attack.

Born in St. George, where he attended the village school, he was 45 years old, son of William and Allura Pease. Besides his widow, Madeleine, he left two sons, Clayton and Winston.

He had been deeply affected by the fact that his oldest son, Calvin, was reported missing after the freighter on which he was serving as a seaman was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine on a voyage from Pensacola, Florida, to a South American port. Also a member of the crew was Harold Anderson, of Port Clyde, who, seriously wounded by a machine gun bullet and shrapnel, was rescued with other members of the crew after five days in a lifeboat.

Port Clyde without Billy Pease is not the same. It had been in the village only a few days on my first visit about 20 years ago when I began to hear about Billy Pease. He was at everybody's beck and call, the soul of courtesy and every ready to lend a helping hand.

When repairs had to be made, a boat engine fixed or any odd job to be done it was always "See Billy Pease." He was everybody's friend and liked by one and all. Even in the short time since he was taken from us by the Grim Reaper more than one villager has remarked: "If only Billy Pease were here!"

He operated the Port Clyde garage and had charge of the school bus.

Funeral services, largely attended were held in the Port Clyde Baptist Church and he was laid to rest in the Ridge cemetery.

Yes, Port Clyde without Billy Pease is not the same. Well could it be said of him:

"None knew him but to love him. None knew him but to praise."

S. Newton Broadbent Port Clyde, June 18.

This And That

By K. S. F.

Once the Aztecs used the chocolate beans for money. Not any but the very upper classes of these people were permitted to use chocolate as a drink.

The June number of "Tains" a magazine devoted to stories of railroad life, published in Milwaukee, Wis., carries a photograph of the "Pioneer" first locomotive to operate in Maine, which hauled trains between Bangor and Milford on the old Bangor, O'dtown & Milford Railroad, between 1836 and 1869, which was known as the "Veazie Railroad" because it was built by Gen. Samuel Veazie of Bangor. The Pioneer was built in England by Stephenson, inventor of the locomotive.

I attend church on rainy Sundays because:

1. God has blessed the Lord's Day and hallowed it, making no exceptions for rainy Sundays.
2. I expect my minister to be there; I should be surprised if he were to stay at home for the weather.
3. My presence is more needful on Sundays when there are few than on those days when the church is crowded.
4. Whatever station I hold in the church, my example must influence others. If I stay away, why may not they?
5. On any important business, rainy weather does not keep me at home, and church attendance is, in God's sight, very important.
6. Among the crowds of pleasure seekers, I see that no weather keeps the delicate female from the ball, the party or the concert.
7. Though my excuses satisfy myself, they still must undergo God's scrutiny and they must be well-grounded to bear that (Luke 14:18).
8. An avoidable absence from the church is an infallible evidence of spiritual decay. Disciples who first follow Christ "at a distance," afterward, like Peter, do not "know" Him.
9. I know not how many more Sundays God may give me, and it would be a poor preparation for my first Sunday in heaven to have slighted my last Sunday on earth.

Gram says, "Lots-a folks is so superstitious they kin hardly turn 'round without seein' or hearin' suthin' to make a sayin' over; either warnin', predictin', lamentin' or rejoicein'. Most women appear to be more so than men, I'd say, tho' the sea-farin' men ain't fur behind.

"Some of our sailer superstitions?—oh, fool ideas like, whis'lin' up a breeze, callin' it bad luck to kick the ship's cat overboard in anger, or losin' a bucket or mop overboard; and sayin's like, 'show'er in the mornin', sailer take warnin'; shower at night, sailer's delight;' or believin' yo're apt to die before the end the voyage if the full moon should shine on yer face in bed—and so on.

"But ole women is the wust. You should-a heerd Gram Donkle and Rube's woman argyin' one day over cookin' a corned haddock.

"See them black stripes down the side the critter?" says Gram, "where it slipped though the devil's fingers?"

"Nonsense!" says Kate, "twuz Saint Peter that had holt of it!"

"Waal, if he did, the devil tried to grab it away from him and tainted it!" says Gram. "Ye don't ketch me eatin' none of it!"

Kate finally had the last word and left the room, a-whis'lin'.

"Whis'lin' women and crowin' hens don't never come to no good ends!" Gram croaked after her.

Dr. Harry Emerson Podick, who summers on the Maine coast, writes of education and the war: "This obligation (to maintain cultured life) is laid on the doorsteps of all our educational institutions. It is to them that we look for perspective and leadership in such an hour as this. If they cannot carry the responsibility, nobody else will, for nobody else can. In their absorption in military necessities they must not allow themselves to be mere appendages of the war machine. They must not abdicate their high purpose. Unless they keep the candles lit which have largely flickered out elsewhere around the world, we may reach the dim aftermath of war, with victory behind us, but with not enough light left to make it mean anything in terms of a brighter world."

Afternoon Tea At C. H. Berry Residence a Benefit For St. Peter's Church

At the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Berry and their charming daughter Marie, gathered Sunday afternoon, from 3 to 5, a deeply appreciative audience of more than 100 to listen with rapt attention to a concert of piano and voice.

The beautiful rooms were artistically decorated with garden flowers in lavish charm. The arrangements were all done by Mrs. Berry who proved herself gifted with aptitude in this line. Guests were met at the door by Miss Geraldine Coffin and were given attractive printed programs. Mr. and Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Gilmore W. Soule, Miss Berry and Miss Nancy Adams were ushers.

The artists are fully known to the musical contingent of Rockland. Byron Doren, yeoman 2d class had been much in demand since he came here in war service; Mrs. Litsa Vardavoulis is well known in the Rubinstein Club for her prowess as a musician of thoughtful and intelligent talent in her chosen art; and Douglas Perry is a general favorite and highly popular young artist, whose baritone voice grows in beauty with time. Miss Lotte McLaughlin was Mr. Perry's accompanist and teacher.

The program

- I. Moonlight Sonata Adagio. Beethoven Greig
- March of the Dwarfs. Byron Doren
- Maynight. Palmgreen Cyril Scott Dubussy
- A Song from the East. Lotte Land. Byron Doren
- Prelude in A Minor. Byron Doren
- Rigandon. Greig op. 46
- Capriccio in E Minor. E. Mendelson, op. 16 (from Midsummer Night's Dream)
- Arabesque. Debussy
- Ecossaise. Berlioz
- Litsa Vardavoulis
- Caro Mio Ben (My Dearest Love). Giuseppe Giordani When I Have Sung My Songs. Ernest Charles Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes. Colonel R. Mellich

After the tea a second program was enjoyed with Byron Doren at the piano, and Lotte McLaughlin delightfully responding with several numbers, and a find in Dr. Gilmore Soule's excellent tenor voice; He sang with much understanding "Santa Lucia" to the great enjoyment of all. A most successful afternoon musical event—by Kathleen S. Fuller.

Commencement Exercises of Warren High School Win Approval Of Large Audience

Graduation exercises for a class of 12 students, Warren High School, were held last Friday night at the Baptist Church, which was prettily decorated for the occasion in early Summer flowers, with fragrant white lilacs predominating. In the background the motto of the class, "In youth we learn; in age, we understand," in the maroon and silver of the class colors.

The marshal for the school was Frank Barrett, '44, his baton decorated with twisted satin ribbon in the maroon and silver of the class colors, and organist for the professional and recessional was Mrs. Chester Wyllie, church organist. The seniors wore maroon caps and gowns, the caps adorned with silver tassels. Other students wore their class flowers, which added to the charming effect of the decorations, as did the corsages of the High School assistants.

Ushers, members of class '44, were, Gloria Haskell, Ethel Wotton, Mary Drewett, Eleanor Pades, Ruth Young and William Chapman.

Order of the exercises, the theme of which was "Factors in the War," was: Processional; invocation, Rev. J. Clark French; salutatory, "Materials Vital to Production," by Leona Sidelinger; Class history, by Wayne Starrett; class will by Marilyn Ranquist; first honor essay, "Strategic Location," by Dorothy Simmons; class prophecy by Patricia Leathers, and Edward Barrett; second honor essay, "Chemical Warfare," by Joan Smith; third honor essay, "The Good Neighbor Policy," by Elizabeth Kenniston; class poem, by Richard Butler; presentation of gifts, by Howard Maxey and Robert Martin; valedictory, "Medicine's Contribution to the War," by Ann Norwood; class ode, by the class; presentation of diplomas by Supt. A. D. Gray; reception to the graduates.

In the conferring of diplomas Mr. Gray pointed out the goal posts of life may either be hitching posts or mile posts, and that the old world of Be has been changed to the world of Do. If democracy is to be secure, one must give more than receive. That is the acme of patriotism. God bless you and keep you in your ideals and spirit of Americanism," he concluded.

He also made the D.A.R. award to Joan Smith, chosen D.A.R. candidate by Lady Knox Chapter of Thomaston, the past Winter, for the annual pilgrimage to Cincinnati, Ohio.

In the salutatory, Miss Sidelinger pointed out the development and use of substitutes and synthetic products in the lack of certain vital materials. Foremost materials are plastics and aluminum. She went on to tell the processing of plastics for use, and said that as early as 1940, manufacturers were experimenting with the production of plastics.

"Plastics will withstand speeds of more than 300 miles an hour in aircraft manufacture," she said.

Continuing with synthetic rubber, she pointed out that it takes nearly 1000 pounds of rubber to equip one army truck. "The world of the future holds promise of plastic houses, airplanes, wire, faucets, and the other necessities of every day living."

Wayne Starrett, in the class history, told of 23 students of class 1943, entering high school four years ago, now reduced to one-half that number. He also pointed out that the girls' soft ball team, of which many of the girls in 1943 were members, were county champions in 1942. He also said that of those who had left school, two, James McIntyre, and Clyde Saunders are in the Army, and one, Ernest L. Starrett, is in the Navy.

The fact that Joan Smith, had been the only delegate from Maine to attend in 1941, the National Student Council Convention at Tufts College, Medford Mass., was also brought out.

The class will by Marilyn Ranquist, contained some well aimed quips, which brought appreciative laughter as did the class prophecy Barrett, who took their ideas from the stars. Class gifts by Howard Maxey and Robert Martin scored some direct hits also, and lightened the program immensely. The class poem by Richard Butler, also was appreciated by the audience.

Dorothy Simmons in the first honor essay emphasized the fact that the geographic location of countries profoundly influence the conduct of foreign affairs. "Certain factors of climate seem to favor human development and progress while others tend to retard it. Sharp and frequent changes in climate are stimulating to mental processes, by control of the maximum output of energy, development of civilization, and world power. Rainfall is another element which plays an important part in development."

"Whatever the attitude of a state may be in regard to formation of a foreign policy, it can not disregard the importance of location, in defense, whether on sea or land," she continued.

Joan Smith opened her essay, "Chemical Warfare," with the statement that though it may seem a modern term to us, it really had its beginnings in early times. She quoted from Dr. Harry Holmes' book, "Out of the Test Tube," who gives a history of chemical warfare, which actually began as early as 431 B. C. when sulphur and pitch were burned against walls of enemy cities. "Burning of sulphur at the war was rejected as inhuman by siege of Sebastopol in the Crimean the British, although it probably would have been effective."

"At the Hague Peace Conference in 1899, the strongest nations of Europe signed an agreement to refrain from using gases. Germany signed later but the United States Delegate Admiral Mahan, was instructed by John Jay, Sec. of State, to refuse to sign on the grounds that such an agreement could not be enforced and that gas war fare would probably be no worse than the use of fire arms and torpedoes."

"North and South America are often spoken of as neighbors, and yet we citizens of the U.S.A. know very little about the countries or the peoples of Latin America," was the opening paragraph of Elizabeth Kenniston's essay on "The Good Neighbor Policy."

"New airway systems, faster steamers and a partially constructed international highway have brought Latin America within easier traveling distance."

"Practically the whole of South America is east of the United States. By drawing a line through Detroit, Mich. on the map, and extend it south, it will just clear the westernmost point of South America. Hence the South American Continent is east of Detroit."

The valedictorian Ann Norwood, in dealing with medicine discussed two phases of medical progress, which are of great importance to men who are in the army.

"The first is, anesthesia and the second is the use of antiseptics," she went on. For the first part of the essay she explained the origin and development over the years of anesthesia, as ether and gas.

"The foremost name connected with antiseptics is that of Joseph Lister, born in 1827, in England who became a physician. In his youth, many patients who had undergone surgical operations, died of infection, Pasteur, French chemist, had experimented with germs, and found that germs caused spoilage of wine. So Dr. Lister, finding that germs could destroy wine, could also create pus in wounds or surgical operations. Hence came the use of carbolic acid, and the world's first antiseptic surgery was in Scotland in 1865."

Following the reception to the graduates, the graduation ball was held at Glover hall, decorated for the occasion with early Summer flowers, against trellises.

Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Willis received toiletry gifts from the class.

MAINE IN WASHINGTON

(From the office of Senator Ralph O. Brewster)

The 12 Eastern seaboard States finally got together last week and went to the bottom of the gasoline situation. A town-meeting of all Representatives and Senators from this section was held and a committee was constituted with one member from each State selected by the State delegation in Congress.

Atlantic Coast Committee

Senator Brewster was selected by the Maine delegation to represent Maine partly because of his membership on the Truman Committee of the Senate which is conducting a comprehensive survey of the fuel and transportation situation throughout the country. Hearings were held with representatives present from the office of the Petroleum Administration and from OPA. Secretary Ickes appeared on Thursday as Petroleum Administrator and made it perfectly clear that as rapidly as restrictions on gasoline use in the Midwest would help the situation in the East he was fully prepared to impose those restrictions.

Equality Of Sacrifice

This was in answer to the demand of the East for equality of sacrifice and the justice of that plea was fully recognized. Today the transportation facilities will suffice only to furnish the off shore requirements for England and the Mediterranean; the essential fuel supplies in New England for this next winter; and 325,000 barrels daily of gasoline for this area. During the past three months there has been a steady drain on the reserves in this area as a result of using each day more than it was possible to bring in until our reserves were at the danger point around 25 percent of normal.

Relief is being sought through opening of the new 24 inch pipe line from Texas in August and the 20 inch pipe line from the Southwest in December.

Out of 108,000 tank cars in the country, 79,000 are being used to serve the East. These will still be available with the completion of the pipe lines and will help the situation and make it possible for the mid-west to share in the shipments of gas overseas by tightening their own belts in the amount of gas they are using from their own production.

One may ask why pipe lines were not built earlier.

The responsibility can certainly not be laid at Secretary Ickes' door as he has been urging pipe lines for more than two years. The members of the New England delegation in Congress early joined Secretary Ickes in the fight for pipe lines. Other authorities in the Government, however, refused to allocate the steel until the situation became critical.

Meanwhile the Maine delegation have been urging barges as an additional help in the transportation problem for more than 18 months and the Truman Committee are co-operating to this end in the face of very powerful opposition from certain transportation interests that would be adversely affected.

To sum it up—war needs must come first. All will agree to that.

Fuel needs for New England for next Winter must also be provided for. Subject to those priorities every possible means will be used to get more gasoline for New England and the midwest will be required to contribute in any and all ways that will help in meeting this situation until there is complete equality of sacrifice for the winning of the war.
